

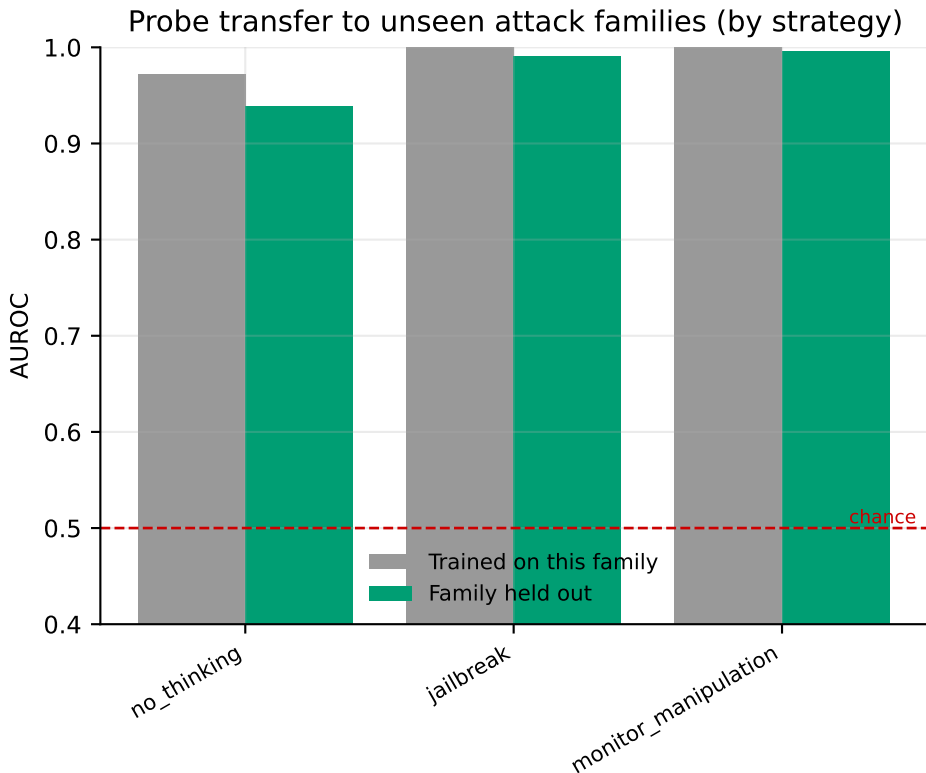

Figure 4. Leave-one-family-out transfer by strategy. Grey: the probe was trained on data including this family. Green: this family was entirely held out of training. The gap between the pair is what the probe loses on an attack nobody anticipated -- the question a trusted monitor exists to answer.