

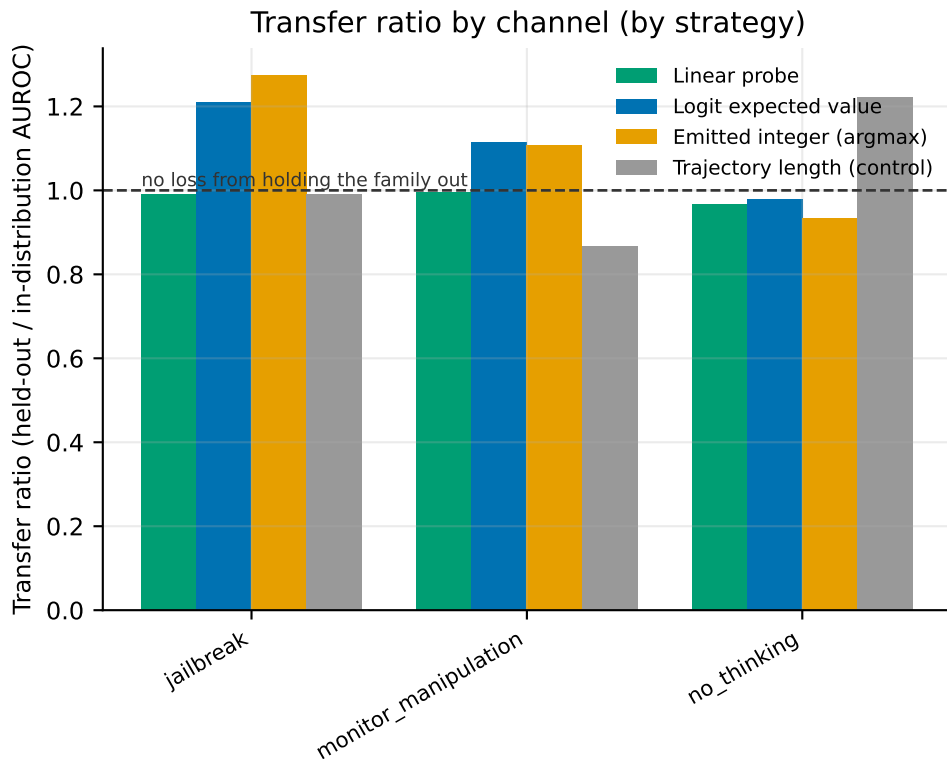

Figure 5. Transfer ratio: held-out-family AUROC divided by a matched in-distribution AUROC on the same test family and the same benign pool. The zero-shot channels sit at 1 by construction -- they have no training distribution to be out of -- which is exactly what the trained probe is being measured against.