

ROC with a log FPR axis, to expose the audit tail

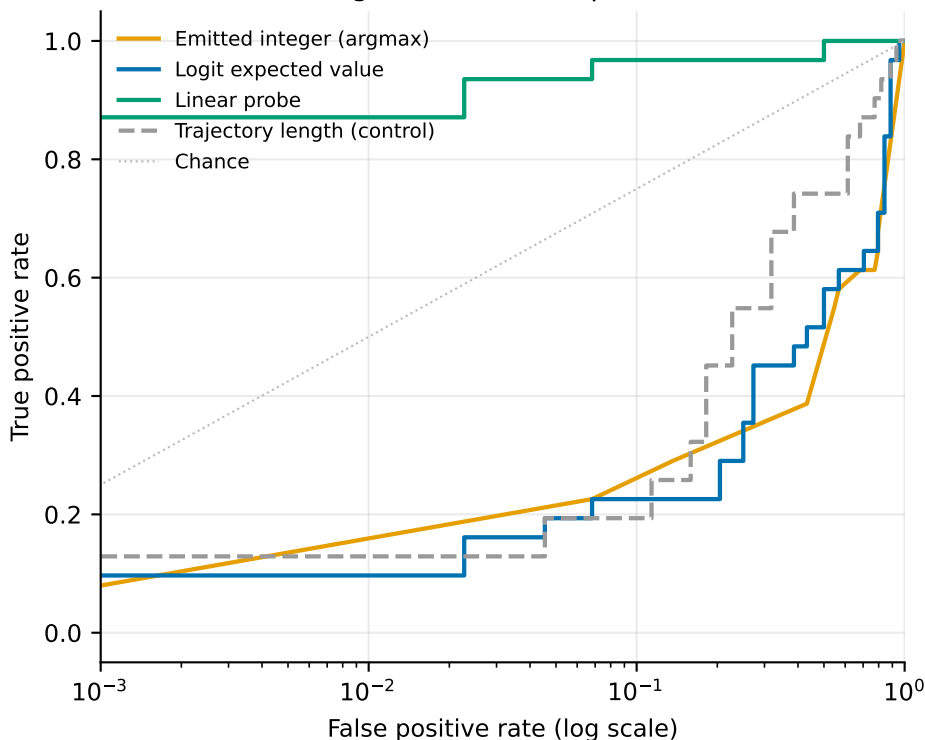

Figure 2. ROC curves on a logarithmic false-positive axis. The left-hand region is where a realistic audit budget sits. A channel whose curve goes flat on the left has run out of resolution: it has no operating point at that budget, and the audit set is then decided by tie-breaking rather than by the monitor.